One minute, one video, unlimited opportunity!

Rise to the Challenge.

Create a 1-minute video describing your idea for solving an environmental issue and submit to National Geographic for a chance to earn up to $10,000 in funding!

Girl Scout Cadettes, Seniors, and Ambassadors, could earn $10,000 as part of National Geographic’s Slingshot Challenge! The Slingshot Challenge is open to students ages 13-18 with an idea for a project to address conservation and sustainability.

National Geographic is inviting Girl Scouts to submit a one-minute video describing their idea for solving an environmental issue.

Is your Girl Scout working on a Highest Awards project that also matches this criteria? Good news! They can use their project idea for the challenge.

Here are the next steps to rise to the challenge and submit a video:

- Brainstorm a project for solving an environmental issue and record a one-minute video sharing your innovative idea for making an impact on our environment. It can be an extension of a project you've already done or something completely new!
- Submit your video to the National Geographic Slingshot Challenge website for the chance to win $10,000 for your project.
- After you've submitted to National Geographic, fill out this form to be entered to win one of four $100 gift cards and receive a free patch.

Kick the Girl Scout year off by participating in the Fall Product Program!

The Fall Product Program is a great way for troops to earn startup funds for Girl Scout activities throughout the year or to get one step closer to reaching their next goal. All troops receive 13% of their magazine orders, BarkBox, and Tervis tumbler orders as troop proceeds, plus $1.05/per item for nuts and chocolates sold. Girl Scouts can participate as an individual member or with their troop. In addition to earning funds, Girl Scouts can earn rewards, including a personalized patch, enter Fall Product Program contests, and become part of the S'mores Club!

Mark your calendars for these awesome OAC events.

Calling all adventurers! The 2024-2025 Outdoor Adventure Club events have been announced! Head to our website and check out the full list of events. The OAC is a GSCO staff-led program for older Girl Scouts offering high adventure activities such as mountain biking, rock climbing, white water rafting, and snowshoeing. This program is designed to support older Girl Scouts in taking healthy risks, challenging themselves to try new activities, and growing their outdoor skills.
